AS THOSE OF YOU know who have read this column on either a regular or irregular basis during the years that it has appeared, there is really no set pattern that is followed.

Trivia of all sorts have appeared in it from time to time.

Some of the items, which, in most cases, have been our own private opinions publicly expressed, have been somewhat controversial in nature and, as expected, have drawn some heated responses.

However, we have never minded people responding in opposition to what has appeared in this space. In fact we like the idea.

Shucks, they have to read the stuff first before they can get mad.

In fact, there are some snide friends of ours who have claimed that we, at times, have deliberately attempted to stir things up with a paragraph or two in "on the limb."

Be that as it may, the fact remains that we enjoy turning out the column but we readily admit that there are times when the material is pretty blah.

WE ADMIT ALSO THAT we are conceited enough to appreciate comments on the contents. Whether the comments are good or bad is incidental.

We recognize that when we sound off on something that has two sides to it, and we are presenting just one, there should be a negative reaction.

So we are generally prepared more or less to ward off the verbal blows that are pretty sure to be flying our way.

But, until last week, we have never had to defend the column from someone who was on the same side with us.

Of course, we realize that in writing, an occupational hazard exists. The reader may read something into the piece that isn't there---or wasn't intended.

Apparently that is what happened last week on the limb item about the 16th annual Bay Area Picnic and Pow-Wow of the Indians in the area which will take place at Senter Park in San Jose on September 2-3.

A caller (a non-Indian, she reported) blasted us for the implied sarcasm that, she claimed, she had noted in our comment.

Now that's really a POW and a WOW, right between the eyes.

It just has to be the first time.

-0-

OUR OBJECTIVE IN THE column was to call attention to the big event and urge people to attend.

We thought that it would be interesting and educational for all of us whose factual knowledge on the American Indian is quite limited.

It is tempered to a degree by a feeling of guilt because of the shoddy way the American Indian had been treated in the past.

Our support for them in the column, we thought, was quite obvious and, as a matter of fact, apparently that was the way it was taken by most of the readers, even the Indians.

But not this one caller.

She was highly critical of our efforts and she claimed that she was a long-time supporter of the Indian activities and berated us for running them down.

Our short fuse, of course, flared.

We suggested that she must not have read the article or, if she had, she should re-read it.

And we also submitted that (in a nice way, sort of, we think), if she could get an adverse impression from that particular report, she had a problem.

But we guess we do. Have a problem, that is.

Sign causes hangup

One councilman (Rusty Hammer) was absent from the City Council meeting on Monday night and, as a result, there was no "swing vote" and a 2-2 deadlock resulted on the appeal of Gold Key Furniture from a Planning Commission ruling which had denied the firm extra large signs for its massive new building on Hamilton Ave.

After the vote, Vice-Mayor Dean Chamberlin, who was presiding, reported that the motion to uphold the Planning Commission and deny the sign had lost because it had not received a majority vote.

However, City Attorney Bob Dempster subsequently ruled that actually no action had been taken and thus the matter was still before the Council. A motion then was passed to continue the matter, with the implied hope that a full council would be present the next time so it could be settled.

During the discussion on the status of the issue, Howard Jacower, president of Gold Key division of Federated Stores, who had made the pitch for the bigger sign, with his tongue in his cheek, suggested from the floor, that if the motion to deny had lost, could it mean that the approval had been given?

"Nice try," Councilman Norm Paul commented, as the city attorney ruled out such an interpretation.

Gold Key, which opened its $2 million retail outlet last week, had requested three signs for the huge facility. One of them for "customer service" was approved by the

Campbell has entry in Olympics

ON WATER POLO TEAM---Steve Barnett, of 433 Queens Court, Campbell, is participating in the 20th Olympiad in Munich, West Germany, as a member of the water polo team. The Olympics opened on Saturday with an impressive ceremony and will continue through September 10.

Barnett is a teacher at Cupertino High School and is also head aquatic coach on a non-paid basis to keep his amateur standing intact. He is a member of the DeAnza Aquatic Foundation, formerly Foothill Aquatic Club. He was a member of the last Olympic team and was on the last two Pan American squads. He won a gold medal at both Pan American games and came in fifth in the last Olympics.

Cheering him on, on the home front is his wife, Elaine, and their two daughters, Sally Ann, 3, and Jenny Lea, eight months.

Density issue again faces Commission

One of the city's major zoning problems concerning the question of how many living units there should be to the acre (density) will highlight the Planning Commission meeting next Tuesday, Sept. 5, (Monday is a holiday).

The Commission is scheduled to recommend changes in the city's zoning ordinance so that the new density ratios specified for the general plan will correspond with the city's zoning districts.

Among the other items on the Planning Commission agenda next Tuesday is the request of I.D. Wiens for a 17-unit apartment complex at 230 Rose Court which shows a higher density than the new requirements.

Up for Commission approval is a new Foto-Mat operation for the Campbell Plaza Shopping Center (Winchester at Budd). Plans are similar to the one that was recently approved for the Kirkwood Plaza.

Odis Ray, an accountant, has requested that he be allowed to convert a residence at 456 N. Harrison into an office and Jack Britton, of 1150 Denver Drive, is requesting retroactive variance for the conversion of a garage into a family room.

The hearing on the proposed conversion of the Sunsweet plant into a commercial development is on the agenda but is expected to be continued until the study sessions on the proposal have been completed.

Other continued hearings are also scheduled for next Tuesday.

The 165,000 square foot building is located on a seven-acre site with ground level parking beneath the showroom for about 350 cars with another 100 spaces around the store. About one-third of the store is devoted to showroom display with the balance in warehouse arrangement. More than 130 employees are on the staff of the local facility.

Federated Stores, which owns I. Magnin and Bullocks, among others, opened its first furniture outlet of the Campbell type in Costa Mesa in May of this year. Another store is planned for San Fernando.

City cuts tax by three cents

In quick succession on Monday night the City Council went through the necessary legal procudures in adopting the $4,447,670 final budget for the fiscal year 1972-73 and setting the tax rate of $1.86, a reduction of three cents from last year.

The routine action on Monday night at the public hearing was the culmination of many prior budget study sessions which started in the spring.

A final session was held last week when the recommendations of the City Manager Bob Stephens were accepted with respect to changes from the preliminary budget that had been approved by the City Council in June.

Stephens noted that approximately $116,045 had been added to the preliminary budget, allowing for the purchase of more equipment and the addition of three personnel to the city staff and still increasing the anticipated unallocated reserve on June 30, 1973 to $132,000.

Stephens explained that this was made possible by a higher increase in assessed valuation than had been anticipated.

The city's assessed valuation has now reached $69,-121,530, it was pointed out.

He also added that the sales tax revenue had been under-estimated by $136,700, as property tax income by $32,490 for last year. All this, he explained, made it possible to increase the unallocated reserve to $132,000 ($42,000 above the figure established by Council policy) and put back some of the priority items that had been cut out during the budget sessions.

Traditionally, at the same hearing, the Council on Monday in a separate action set 13-cents per $100 assessed valuation as the tax rate for the Campbell Lighting District, no change from the previous year. The tax rate esti-

IN HOSPITAL---Councilman Rusty Hammer, 19, has been hospitalized since last Wednesday because of injuries suffered in an auto accident near the city hall.

Hammer was admitted to Campbell Community Hospital with injuries to his left leg and hip, stomach, head and neck. He was expected to be released this week.

According to the police reports, the young councilman was driving north on North First Street just after leaving the city hall when the left front of his car was struck broadside by a car driven by Mrs. Margaret Genevieve Peterson, of 1981 Kirby Way, San Jose, traveling east on Grant. She was not injured.

According to police, First Street traffic has the right-of-way at the intersection and traffic is controlled on Grant by "yield" signs.

Pre-opening activity stirs on school front

Back-to-school comes earlier this year for students in the Campbell Union (elementary) School District as Monday, September 11, will be the first day of the 1972-73 school year.

Registration of beginning kindergarten children and for students new to the district or school area begins this Friday, September 1. Parents are urged by the district staff to take care of this matter prior to the first day of school.

To be eligible for kindergarten, a child must have been born on or before December 2, 1967. Proof of age is required for registering children.

Next Tuesday, on September 5, Campbell teachers will return for individual school building meetings and for room and program preparation. District meetings offered to teachers begin on September 6 at Capri School beginning at 9 a.m. A curriculum materials workshop is planned for the same afternoon at Monroe School's cafetorium.

The district office curriculum lab will be open to all teachers on September 1-7, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

LUNCH PRICES

The lunch prices for children will continue at 45-cents or $2.25 per week when purchased by tickets. These tickets are available on the first day of school of the week. Milk will also be sold to students at 6-cents per ½-pint carton.

Free meals will again be available for needy children.

Children from families with a monthly gross income, from all sources, at or below the levels listed are eligible for free or reduced priced meals, depending on the number of children attending schools and pre-school institutions.

Eligible parents who wish to apply for their children may obtain an application from their school principal. Even though family members received free lunches last school year, a new application must again be made for this school year, district officials

High school teachers gather for "Learning Fair" Sept. 6-7

Teachers from the nine Campbell Union High School District schools will assemble at Prospect High School for a special "Learning Fair" on September 6 and 7, according to the district staff.

The program offers in-service training to teachers which will acquaint them with new developments in teaching techniques.

Experts from the education field will present 14 different mini-courses for the teachers to choose from. Among the courses offered are "Nursery Rhymes or Else," a study of reading, taught by Ruth Craig, the reading lab director at Santa Rosa Junior College: and "A Graphic Approach to Communication," taught by Dr. George Cochern of San Jose State University.

Howard Wingard of San Diego State will present a course in "Communication Goals for Foreign Language Teachers;" and Jerald Kemp of San Jose State will offer "Development of Independent Study Units," which will deal with developing teacher learning activities.

Each teacher will sign up for four sessions in the intensive learning program. During the day, exhibits will be shown for teachers not occupied in the classroom.

ORIENTATION

The district will kick off its school year on Tuesday, September 5 with a special orientation program for the 39 new teachers. They begin the mornings in their new schools and end up at the District Office for lunch.

Camden High School students will pre-register early, coming to school on September 6 and 7 to participate in a college-like program of teacher and period selection.

All district students appear at their schools on September 12 for a "minimum" day to set up book rentals and class schedules. First full day of school is September 13.

Campbell, Westmont and Prospect begin their school days at 8 a.m., all other schools begin at 8:30. Classes at the first three schools last

Editorial

Welcome to town

Campbell city officials last Thursday at the opening of the Gold Key Warehouse Furniture at Hamilton and Salmar enthusiastically welcomed this $2 million furniture store to the business community of this city.

It's a major achievement for this city to have a firm of the magnitude of Gold Key locate here.

Not only is the new facility this city's largest single retail store, but the company officials maintain that it is the largest furniture outlet of the type in the world.

Obviously it means a great deal to this city in many ways. One can envision, for example, just what it means from the tax base point of view both as to the property tax and sales tax income that will be derived from the operation.

And there is the intangible value of what may be called "prestige" to the community for want of a better term.

Gold Key is affiliated with Federated Stores, one of the nation's leading retailers. It is the parent firm, for example, of I. Magnin's and Bullock's.

Another tangible asset is that the local store has a staff of 130 people, most of them hired locally. The payroll is thus of a substantial nature.

We are well aware that the new Gold Key operation is regional in scope and is part of the so-called metropolitan concept of San Jose. It is not just geared for Campbell trade.

We recognize also that during the first few weeks, traffic jams are bound to result on the heavily-traveled Hamilton Ave. and the freeway off-ramp. There will be those, of course, who will be highly critical of the operation because of these traffic hang-ups.

While we concede that during the first few weeks the traffic problems may be horrendous, we think as the "newness" wears off most of the traffic snarls will be eliminated.

So we reiterate the feelings of the city officials and maintain that the location of such a store in this city is a major achievement for this community.

We are proud to join with the city officials in welcoming Gold Key to the business community.

Common goals

Campbell's new advisory group, the seven-member Civic Improvement Commission, is now in the process of getting acclimated as an official city agency.

The new commissioners are making a sincere effort to learn how the city government functions and how they are to fit into the picture.

We sincerely believe that as time goes on the Civic Improvement Commission will prove its worth to the city, for their spelled-out duties cover areas of concern that are becoming increasingly important to this community.

The purpose of the advisory body is to cooperate with other governmental agencies in the areas of "cultural needs; health and welfare services; beautification; environment; library needs, historic needs and problems of youth and senior citizens".

Very obviously the scope is far-reaching and general and just as obviously it covers specific areas that could conceivably be the province of the existing city advisory bodies, i.e., planning, parks and youth.

Thus we think it is very important for the new commissioners to familiarize themselves with the functions of their fellow commissioners on similar city advisory bodies.

We commend the new unit for doing this, for we are convinced it will make for a more effective operation in the future.

Those of us who are exposed daily because of our profession or interest, to the administration and operation of a city such as Campbell sometimes overlook the fact that the vast majority of the citizens have not had the same exposure and thus are not as familiar with the inner workings of local government.

It is commendable that the members of the Civic Improvement Commission have shown enthusiasm and eagerness to get down to work.

We are convinced that this enthusiasm will prove valuable as time goes on, for, as we pointed out, there is a definite need, in our opinion, of such a group of civic-minded individuals to work toward making a better Campbell.

But we caution the city advisory body to move slowly into some of the areas of concern in which they are vitally interested.

From our observation in the past, we know that one of the problems that will develop will be in the overlapping into what another city advisory body may consider its special province resulting in intra-city back-biting and worse.

We think that, if a clear understanding is maintained among all the city commissions, such frictions can be avoided.

It must be remembered that ALL the city commissioners are voluntarily doing to the best of their ability what they feel is a civic duty.

And there has to be a common objective, otherwise the city as a whole will suffer.

IN LAST WEEK'S COLUMN we also had a paragraph or two about a bus that had been parked on Bascom Ave. across from the PruneYard off and on for sometime with a "For Sale" sign on the front and one on the back.

We admitted that our curiosity had been aroused by the huge green and white bus, although we were not in the market for such a vehicle.

And we wondered out loud just who would be.

You may remember that we promised you that we would give you more details on the subject as soon as our curiosity was aroused to a point that we would "research" the matter in depth.

(Who knows, some of you may need a bus in your life.)

We are sure you can hardly wait.

Anyway, we didn't have to go out of our office to get the dope.

You might call it "catching-a-bus-while-at-our-desk."

We are pleased to make our report to you.

So glad you asked.

-0-

IT IS A FORMER GREYhound job and George Carroll, who lives on Cameo Drive in Campbell, has been the owner since last November.

Carroll called us. He said he had enjoyed the bit in the column. After all, he is trying to sell the bus.

He explained that he had purchased it from Greyhound and had converted the inside to make it useable as a mobile home on wheels.

(We hadn't looked inside when we commented on it. Obviously, that conversion increases the customer potential.)

He added that the response had been comparatively good and guessed that he had received approximately 25 calls from people who showed interest in varying degrees. He also told us that he was asking $29,000.

We would never have dreamed that so many people were in the market for a Greyhound bus. After all, isn't that contrary to the Greyhound advertising slogan of "leave the driving to us"?

If we had thought a little, we really should not have been too surprised, however, over the possibility of converting a passenger bus into a mobile camper.

As a case in point, early this summer, relatives of our nephew and niece, Jack and Mary Vierhus, traveled from Pennsylvania to San Jose in a converted school bus.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Roehm, of Lancaster, Pa., and five kids, had a great time in their trans-continental journey.

The bus is of fairly ancient vintage but it purred beautifully, Don reported, all the way across the country. Only a couple of tire problems marred the trip.

Don is a highly-skilled mechanic. He sort of put the thing together himself which, of course, helped matters.

We imagine any strange engine noise would have alerted him at once whereas, in our case, it would have to conk out completely.

However, we think we prefer to go along with the Greyhound slogan....

That is, if we ever have to take a bus.

SOMETIME AGO SOMEone informed us that he would come by "in the evening" to pick up something at our house.

We didn't think anything about it until later in midday when we were invited out to dinner.

We accepted. But we added that it would be a little later than usual because we expected a party by in the "evening."

Then we realized what an indefinite term "evening" really is.

When does "evening" begin and when does it end and "night" take over.

Frankly, we haven't the vaguest.

But, anyway, we had to turn down the dinner invitation because the guy who was coming by in the "evening" hadn't arrived.

In fact, he never did show.

We have vowed that in the future when someone uses "evening," we will politely ask between what hours.

By the way, just WHAT does evening mean to you?

Timewise, that is.

-0-

TRAFFIC JAMS ARE common occurence in this urban sprawl in which we live and we get as frustrated as the next guy whenever we are involved in one.

Most of them follow a set pattern, so to speak.

Except the other day when we were rushing to an appointment in San Jose and had to go down Coleman.

We got behind a truck that was hauling huge, tall standards that looked like they were meant for a bridge.

The standards, or whatever, were so high that the wires crossing Coleman had to be lifted for the truck to pass.

A pickup was traveling in the lane next to the big truck with a guy with a pole who lifted the wires for the truck to go under.

We had no idea there were so many wires crossing Coleman.

But we became so intrigued by the maneuver, we really only fumed a little.

And we were only a little late.

Planning Commission but the other two, one facing Hamilton Ave. and the other the freeway, were denied because they were larger than allowed by the city under the ordinance and in addition one was oriented to the freeway which policy prohibits. However, the ordinance does allow exceptions if the situation warrants it.

At the request of the Gold Key people, the Council agreed to discuss only the Hamilton Ave. frontage sign on Monday night which would be on the 85-foot expanse, contain 609 square feet and have 6-foot high letters.

The city's planning staff had suggested that 4-foot high letters would be adequate and the square footage should be cut down.

Jacower, in presenting the Gold Key case, maintained that the sign had been designed by professionals for the building and that esthetics was the main concern and not the size of the letters. He submitted that the large sign was needed because of the massiveness of the structure.

In the discussion by the councilmen, Paul and Chamberlin collided in their opinions over the question of esthetics. Paul claimed the sign was too large and Chamberlin said the large size was necessary because of the dimensions of the building. The two councilmen also differed on the esthetics of a sign that had been approved on Winchester the past year.

Paul then moved to uphold the Planning Commission and deny the sign. Mayor Bill Podgorsek turned the gavel over to Vice-Mayor Chamberlin in order to second it.

In the resulting deadlock, Podgorsek and Paul were opposed by Chamberlin and Councilman Ralph Doetsch.

In another sign issue, at the request of the applicant, Fred Sahadi, the Council again continued his appeal from a Planning Commission ruling denying a 58-foot directional pole sign for the PruneYard. Sahadi had indicated prior to the meeting that he preferred to present his case to a full council.

mated to raise $77,270 to pay PG&E for energy costs for street lighting.

The city tax breakdown shows that $1.18 of the total will be for operational costs, 12-cents for city hall completion and 56-cents for debt service.

Because some areas within the city limits are not obligated to pay for bond redemption, the tax rate for those areas will be $1.30.

Mayor Bill Podgorsek, apparently expressing the feelings of the entire city family, said that the city's fiscal position was better than it ever had been and that the city was now in a position to move ahead after a long struggle.

Councilman Rusty Hammer, who was injured in a car accident last Wednesday and is still hospitalized, was absent from the Council meeting.

In a letter to the Council which was read into the record, Hammer expressed regret for missing his first vote on the budget and tax rate but indicated that he would have voted for approval.

Density change gets ok

New "densities" for the various zoning districts within the city as recommended by the Planning Commission won the approval of the City Council on Monday night when the first reading of the ordinance amending the general plan was approved.

At the meeting next Tuesday, Sept. 5, the Planning Commission is scheduled to take the next step in making the new density ratios correspond to the city's zoning. A state law now requires that the general plan and zoning must correspond.

The new density schedule establishes that the low density be dropped to 6 units per acre from the present 4-7; low, medium from 10-15 to 6-13; medium from 15-25 to 14-20 and high from 25-35 to 21-27.

In other actions on Monday the City Council:

APPROVED the zone change from R-1 to C-2-S for property at 2325 Winchester Blvd.

APPROVED the zone change from R-1 to R-3-S at 825 Apricot Ave.

APPROVED the new development schedule for the shopping center at 850 W. Hamilton Ave. where Fry's Market is located.

APPROVED a resolution establishing salaries for new city employees, Terry Adams, maintenance, $686; Ronald G. Ferguson, sweeper operator, $976; Salvatore A. Leonardi, battalion chief, $1331 and Richard Wixon, police agent, $1133.

New Battalion Chief Leonardi fills a position created by the Council under the reorganization plan of the fire department. Adams fills a new position while Ferguson and Wixon fill vacancies created by resignations.

Agents Administration gets city's insurance contract

Following the recommendation of Thomas B. Kennedy, who had been employed by the city as an insurance consultant after the City Council on June 26 had rejected the insurance bids and called for a new one, the City Council on Monday awarded the city's insurance contract to Agents Administration for $28,846.

The Council also approved the suggestion of Kennedy that additional "umbrella coverage", for a premium of $400 be awarded the James F. Smith & Co.

Kennedy explained that three bids had been submitted, Alexander & Alexander, Agents Administration and James F. Smith Co. and that his analysis and breakdown of the coverage offered indicated that the best bid was from Agents Administration (with the additional umbrella coverage from Smith.) Agents Administration is represented by Pete Giorgianni.

Since July 1, when the previous insurance had expired, James F. Smith & Co., the city's insurance carrier for the past year, had "covered" the city on a 60-day extension. The new insurance will go into effect on Sept. 1.

Kennedy, as part of his duties as consultant, had analyzed the city's insurance program and had made changes in the specifications from those that originally had been presented in June.

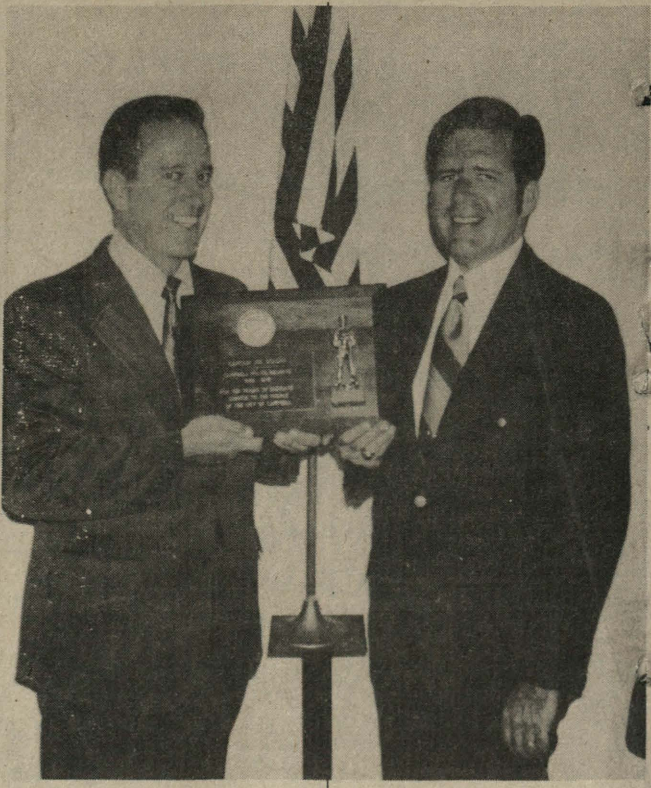
ENROLLMENT

Expected enrollment in the district this year is 14,756, up from last year's total of 14,695.

This district growth is exhibited in the new building additions at Westmont, Blackford and Branham High Schools. Classrooms are being completed at all three schools, along with library additions at Westmont and Branham and a new photo lab at Blackford.

Many of the students will see new faces in their administrations, as George Miskulin, long-time Del Mar chief, moves to Leigh as its new principal; Harold Sonntag, goes to Del Mar from Blackford in the principal slot; George Buonocore takes over at Westmont, replacing Bob Culp; and Warren Glaze becomes principal of Blackford.



HONORED---Police Chief Don Burr (left) presents Captain Joe Golden, of the police reserves, with a plaque from the City Council for outstanding service rendered to the City of Campbell during the 10 years Captain Golden served with the reserves. Golden was honored by the regular and reserves at a farewell party and received a desk set from his fellow officers.

A certificate of appreciation was also presented for maintaining the highest level of professionalism.

Captain Charles Ellner, a five-year reservist, has been appointed to succeed Golden. The police reserve unit is made up of citizen volunteers with a desire to aid in law enforcement. Capt. Ellner noted that the department was always on the lookout for good applicants with an eye toward a career in law enforcement.

Applications can be obtained at the police department. A number of Campbell reserves, he added, are now full-time officers in other cities in the county and over the years 10 members of the reserves have become regulars of the Campbell force.

WE CHALLENGE BOBBY BORIS ONE TIME
ALL LIQUOR MUST BE CONSUMED

CHESS ANYONE?---Since the world has focused attention on Iceland the past few weeks where the series of championship chess games are being played by Boris Spassky and Bobby Fischer, it is only fitting that Pete Carlino, Sr., of the Roundhouse Liquors and Delicatessen in Campbell would remember that he had a set around someplace. Oh yes, billed as the "world's largest chessmen" the set was marketed a few years ago and contains whiskey. The sign in the background challenges Spassky and Fischer to come play with these unusual pieces, removing the contents as they play!

INSURANCE AWARD

Thomas W. Barbour, J. Kenneth Mantle, and James A. Shepardson have qualified as members of the 1972 Top Club of the New York Life Insurance Company, recognizing them as being among the company's top agents.

All three work in Campbell. Their Top Club membership is based on 1971-72 sales records.

As members of the Top Club, they have been invited to attend an educational conference in Colorado Springs.

VISITORS

Each year more than one million persons visit Mt. Vernon, George Washington's home.

HELP FOR SENIORS

Congressman Charles S. Gubser has appointed John J. Cassidy, former district manager of the San Jose Social Security Office, to his congressional staff to serve as a senior citizen advisor.

Cassidy will be available for appointments with all older persons who need advice concerning Social Security, medicare, and other problems. Appointments with Mr. Cassidy should be made in advance by calling Congressman Gubser's San Jose office at 361 Town and Country Village. The phone number is Area Code (408) 246-1122.

...and still more winners

In the swine category, Westmont High students Mark Archer, Rob Paulsen, and Jeff Taraldson joined champions Barbara Bothman and Dan Boynton as first place winners. David Freitas brought home a second place award.

Four Blackford and Del Mar students were given first prizes, including Benjamin Buenrostro, David Cultrera, Kim Jensen and Gary Mumm. Laurie Edwards of Prospect High was also a first place winner.

Other winners from the Campbell, Westmont, Prospect Club included Pat Hledan, Kevin Kalman, Jim Marich, Dan Wines, Richard Lloyd, Ralph Murphy and Craig Scott. Both Brian Haines and Tom Heck won second prizes.

Industrial Education, grades 11 and 12 proved to be another winning category, as 15 Westmont students brought home awards. Doug Calicchio was the proud claimant of two firsts and a third, and Kevin Murdock received a first place.

Fred Alvear and Paul Eckstedt were each awarded three second prizes. Robin C. Davis was given two seconds and two thirds, making him the only four-time winner in the Westmont group. Other second place winners included Barry Rich, James Cauthen, Tony Giancola, Leon Hayes and Harold Lindsay. Steve Pasinsky took a second and two thirds.

Wayne Seward won two third prizes, and David Greenaway, Mark Shannon and Gary Wygant were other third place winners.

West Valley College claimed ten awards in the competition. Ray Peredia was a two-time winner, taking home two first places. Steven Roy Andrade, Barbara Boer, Garry J. Cross, Dave Hally and Rudy Monte, Jr. rounded out the list of first place winners. Jon R. Nelson won a second and third prize, and Keith Kruse claimed a second place in the competition.

Three of the Industrial Education winners hailed from Campbell High School, including David Boncheff, a second place winner, and Michael Cargill and Terry Greenshields, both winners of third prizes.

James Grijalua, representing Blackford High School, took home two first places.

NEW POST---Diana Finch has been hired as the first full-time Executive Coordinator of the San Jose Music Theatre. A member of the San Jose Council of Arts, she will be in charge of coordinating the program with the currently non-operable Community Theater.

New math out at Stanford

Stanford's School of Mathematics Study Group (SMSG), the originator of the "new math," will be phased out.

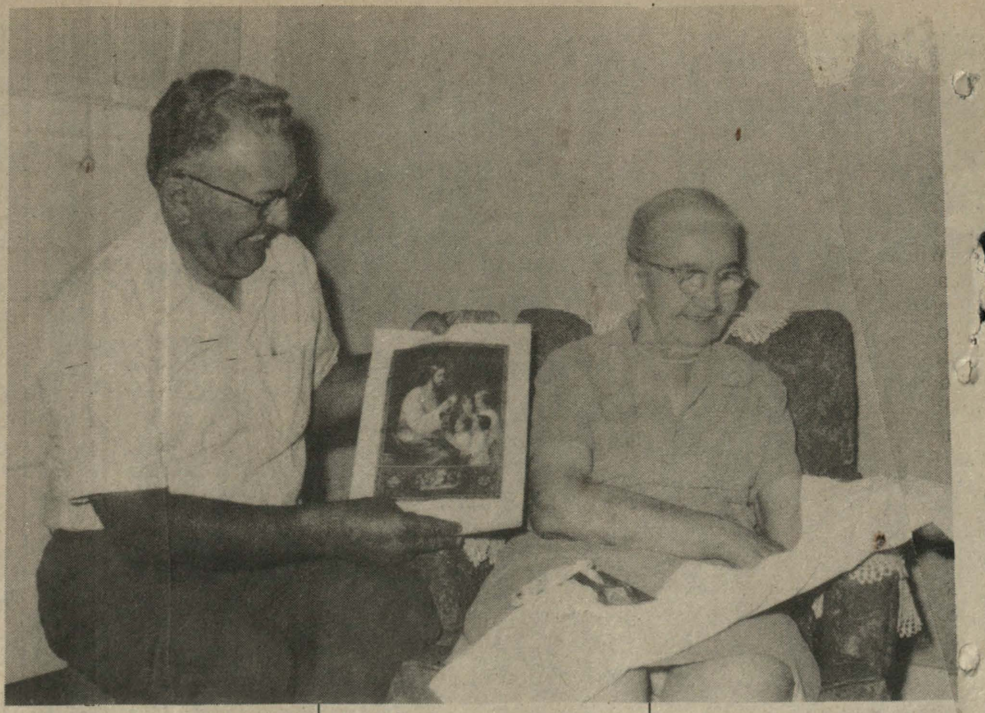
Professor Edward G. Begle, director of SMSG since its inception in 1958, denies the action means the new math is dead.

"You can't buy a mathematics text today that doesn't show some SMSG influence," he said. "SMSG started out to change the mathematics curriculum, and it was completely successful. We made mathematics understandable instead of merely an exercise of rote learning."

Prof. Begle also notes that more than 10 million youngsters have learned the new math and that it has spread from the junior high level down to pre-school and up through the 12th grade.

Critics would probably concede that new math has become an integral part of today's courses, but that probably doesn't make them like it any more. Since the program started it has been the center of spirited debate. To many it seemed to exemplify the spate of educational innovations of the 50's. Traditionalists and some frustrated parents denounced new math as a confusing, meaningless course with no practical benefits. Defenders were just as vehement in praising its values.

A more pragmatic evaluation will come when results of tests given by SMSG over a five-year period are fully analyzed.



PAST HISTORY---St. Lucy's Catholic Church will celebrate its silver jubilee as a full-fledged parish during the week of October 15-22. A Mass of Thanksgiving with Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken as the celebrant will take place at noon on Sunday, October 15 and an "Octoberfest" including a barbecue and booths and entertainment on the church grounds will conclude Jubilee Week on Saturday-Sunday (October 21-22). A community dinner is planned for Thursday and a program featuring talent of the parish is scheduled for Friday.

Prior to St. Lucy's becoming a parish it was a "mission" conducted by St. Martin's of San Jose. There are still a number of active parishioners who recall the mission status. Jubilee committee members, headed by Mrs. Jeanette Watson, are compiling records of St. Lucy's early history.

Ed Stojanovich (above), a long-time member of the parish, holds his First Communion certificate from St. Lucy's dated May 18, 1924 while his mother, Mrs. Nika Stojanovich holds her son's baptismal gown and early prayer book. A display of historical items of the parish is planned for Silver Jubilee Week, according to Mrs. Watson.

P. B. JOHNSON - LICENSED CONTRACTOR

Dancing is her art, job and life

by Tony Dirksen

"No amusement seems more to have a foundation in our nature than dancing," said William Channing a century ago.

That statement truly fits one Campbell dance instructor. Marie Stinnett has been dancing since she was only six. By age 13, she was already teaching others to dance. At 19, she had her first of many movie dancing roles in "You're Never Too Young."

Today she teaches dancing in Campbell, choreographs local productions, and spreads Snoopy's philosophy to all her students: "If you can't dance, at least do a happy hop."

It is hard to find one place to start talking about Marie Stinnett. She has an enthused personality, making every part of her still young life sound as exciting, and as important, as any other.

DANCE INSTRUCTOR

Her philosophy as a teacher perhaps best expresses her philosophy of the dance. "Today I specialize in what I like most, a musical-comedy-jazz form of dancing," she says. "I felt that with this style I could reach more people. The musical comedy style allows them to enjoy dancing sooner. They can feel like they're doing something."

"It's not only teaching dancing," she explains. "It's like teaching them to be better individuals."

Today she teaches 175 young people from many different backgrounds. She says she can see a change come over almost all of them. "Dancing instills body respect, body discipline, and mental discipline. When they dance, they begin to realize they should take better care of themselves."

Marie Stinnett has been teaching in Campbell since 1958. Several of her students have gone on to become professionals.

Taffy Jones, a "ding-a-ling sister" last season on the Dean Martin Show, began her Marie Stinnett lessons at age eight. Janie McDonall, a former Campbell High student, is now a featured dancer with "Disney on Parade."

HOLLYWOOD DAYS

But Marie Stinnett has also been a professional in her own right. Discovered as a high school cheerleader, she was one of only six girls chosen out of 175 for her first dancing role.

She did her steps in a number of Hollywood productions, among them "The Joker is Wild," MGM's "Carousel," and several segments of the "Ozzie and Harriet Show." She did a stint in some of the old Sam Katzman rock movies, such as "Don't Knock the Rock."

As is the curse of all dancers, occasionally her work would end up on the cutting room floor. She danced, but never appeared in the old Bette Davis movie, "The Virgin Queen". "Once," she says, "I took one of my students and her mother to see me dancing in a movie. It was somewhat embarrassing," she explains, as the dance scene had been cut out.

At one time, she was asked to be a double for Doris Day, an actress to whom she has an almost uncanny resemblance.

She also did a few small acting roles, including one appearance as John Wayne's daughter in "Wings of Eagles."

FUTURE PLANS

"The chief benefit of dancing is to teach one how to sit still," said Samuel Johnson, but it is probably the one lesson that Marie Stinnett has never learned. Even today, she seems to be always busy, either with her family, studio, work on Campbell High productions including "Finian's Rainbow," "Oklahoma!," "Here's Love," "The Boy Friend," and "Bye Bye Birdie," or with a production this summer of "West Side Story," which opened August 10 at the San Jose Music Theater.

And she plans to increase her level of work even more. Next year, she will increase her number of students by hiring Ann Sjoberg, a senior at Stanford, as an assistant instructor. Ann has been teaching during the summer at Campbell High's summer cultural program and has taken lessons from Marie Stinnett since she was seven. "Ann was one of the first 17 students who came to the opening of my studio," she explains.

But if her philosophy of the dance is correct, Marie Stinnett could probably do as much work as she wanted and never have to sit still. Even the rules of her dance school, which requrie proper clothing and manner are based on discipline designed to make their dancework go more easily. "A ditchdigger can't wear a tuxedo to work," she explains. "So must the dance student be properly disciplined and properly groomed."

This discipline, she explains, is the one thing she can teach all her students. But equally important, she makes clear, is that the students have fun at the same time. "There is a certain freedom of dancing with music," she says. "The students learn they can be an individual in anything they attempt."

AT AN EASIER MOMENT---Marie Stinnett, a Campbell dance instructor, takes things easy on a sunny afternoon. "The lessons learned in dancing carry over to your everyday life," she says.

PRESENCE — Marie Stinnett practices dancing in her Campbell studio. "The most important thing for a dancer," she says, "is presence: how they present themselves-how well they put over their ability."

HIGH-STEPPING ASSISTANT—Ann Sjoberg shows the grace and form that Marie Stinnett has taught her in her 15 years as a dance student. Ann will soon be an assistant instructor to Mrs. Stinnett.

Tryouts set for "Company"

Auditions have been set for the San Jose Music Theater production of "Company," scheduled to open on November 3 and run through November 25.

Talent between the ages of 25 and 40 will be required for the production to fill the roles of a male lead, his three girl friends and five married couples who will work as an ensemble. No chorus is needed for the show.

Tryouts are scheduled for Saturday, September 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Spartan Room of the St. Claire Hotel in downtown San Jose, and again from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, September 10. Finalist call-backs will be at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. Auditions are open to the public.

BAZAAR

The I.O.O.F. Hall at 276 Campbell Ave. is the scene of the Ada Rebekah Lodge 223 August 31 bazaar.

A food booth, fancy work, domestic and boutique booth, white elephant, plant booth and grab bag will be offered for the day. At 12:00 noon there will be a salad bar luncheon for the donation of $1.25.

PARTY PLANS

Ada Rebekah #223 and Morning Light Lodge ##42 will have a party for members and friends on September 2 at 8:00 p.m. in the I.O.O.F. Hall at 276 Campbell Ave. Light refreshments will be served.

GARDEN CLUB

Slides of native floral, a plant exchange and a horticulture discussion are all planned for the next meeting of the Campbell Garden Club, scheduled for Wednesday, September 13, at 10:30 a.m. at the Campbell Congregational Church, 400 W. Campbell Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kelly and Mrs. James Hartman will make the presentations.

Visitors are always welcome at the Garden Club meetings. For more information, contact Mrs. Stefan Fursh at 248-4833.

California enrollments up...uP...UP

Enrollment in California's public educational institutions is expected to equal 7.3 million in September.

Over three million youngsters are expected to be enrolled in kindergarten through the eighth grades. An increase is expected at the ninth through twelfth grade levels to bring a total of about 1,331,500 pupils.

Some 1,232,480 enrollments are expected in adult high school classes.

California's rapidly expanding two-year community colleges are expecting an increase of about 5.8 per cent, for an estimated 900,000 full-time and part-time enrollment.

The California State University and Colleges will open their doors to an estimated 280,000 pupils.

The University of California is expected to reach about 111,000 in September, a growth of nearly 6,000 students.

Pre-school opens doors

Doors will open to parents and pre-school children at the Campbell Parents Nursery School on Thursday, August 31, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Under the directorship of Mrs. Helen Riedel, the school offers parents the chance to join in the fun and the work of running the school. Mothers also cooperate with each other in setting up carpools and trading babysitting for infants while they stay with their pre-schooler.

The school is located at 528 North Harrison in Campbell. For more information, call 241-1096.

MRS. IRWIN PASTERNAK

Appointed as district chairman

Mrs. Irwin Pasternak has been appointed as district deputy for District 13 of the Young Ladies' Institute.

A reception in her honor will be held at St. Lucy's Hall on Thursday, August 31 at 8:00 p.m.

St. Lucy's Institute 204 will sponsor the evening. Arrangements have been made by Mrs. Velma Branigan, chairman, and Mrs. Jack Mardesich, co-chairman, with the assistance of Alice McKay, Doris French, Mrs. Joseph Barge, Mrs. William Chicoine, Mrs. John Vaccaro and Mrs. Edward Spehar.

Mrs. Pasternak's first function as chairman will be a Board of Management meeting scheduled for September 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Northwestern California Savings and Loan Association Building in San Jose.

New art store for Campbell

A new shop which will serve as an outlet for crafts is slated to open Saturday, September 2, at 259 E. Campbell Avenue.

Called "The Craftmen's Gallery," the store grew out of the need of Mrs. Sherry Williams, the owner, to find a source to display her own particular craft ideas.

Mrs. Williams, who resides in Campbell, says the store is a new venture which will feature leather, ornamental iron, metal work, terrariums, candles, leather craft, macrame, plastic carvings, jewelry, weavings, wall hangings, as well as art work.

Greeting the customers daily from 9:30 to 5 will be Mrs. Lee Crossno, Mrs. Williams' mother. The store will also be open Thursday evenings.

On opening day, Mrs. Williams expects that a potter will be on hand to demonstrate the use of a potting wheel and an artist will be present to make sketches.

Featured art work during the first month will be that of John Thole.

Montalvo offers art for September

Macrame, textiles, graphics, paintings, prints and blown glass articles will be exhibited by the Gallery Committee of Villa Montalvo beginning on September 2.

Among the artists are Jack Dunstan, an art instructor for the Santa Clara Unified School District; Marc and Melissa Davey; and Richard Stivers, a young glass blower born in San Jose.

A reception to meet the artists will be held on Sunday, September 10, from 2 to 4 p.m. The public is invited.

"Of Thee I Sing" opens in Saratoga

Mary Balkow, Brian Mann, Bob Balkow and Jim Kinney are among the Campbell residents helping to put together the latest Saratoga Drama Group production, "Of Thee I Sing."

Set to open on Friday, September 8 and to run through four weekends, the production brings together local talent in a show that is old-fashioned, topical and funny, all at the same time.

Production dates have been set for Fridays and Saturdays, September 8 and 9, 15 and 16, 22 and 23, and 29 and 30. Other dates for performances include Thursdays, September 14, 21 and 28, Wednesday, September 27, and Sundays, September 17 and 24. All shows will be put on in the Saratoga Civic Theater at 17333 Fruitvale in Saratoga. Performances begin at 8:30 p.m.

The play is written by Morrie Ryskind and George Kaufman, with music created by George and Ira Gershwin. Saratoga's production is directed by Irwin Atkins of San Jose State University. Elizabeth Elbon is in charge of the musical direction, with choreography led by Barbara Valenti. The show is produced by Marion Cherry.

For ticket information, call Agnes West at 255-0801.

AWAIT PRODUCTION---Making plans for their parts in the upcoming Saratoga Drama Group production "Of Thee I Sing," are the Balkow family of Campbell. Standing are, Bob Balkow, dad, and Karen and Laurie, daughters. Seated behind the piano are Mary Balkow, mother and Tom Balkow. Everyone in the family has been working on the local production.

CAMPBELL ON STAGE--Campbell people working on the upcoming Saratoga Drama Group production "Of Thee I Sing" are Mary Balkow, Brian Mann, Bob Balkow, and stage manager Jim Kinney. The show opens on September 8 in the Saratoga Civic Theater.

Seniors get jobs in new program

A new program has opened for area senior citizens looking for work.

In the past, anyone over 55 out of work who was either too young for Social Security or didn't receive a large enough Social Security check would be forced to go on welfare. Now, a new door is opening.

Retirement Jobs, Inc., a cooperative job service for older residents, has received a federal grant of $644,560 to provide jobs for 250 senior residents of the Bay Area.

To be eligible a person must be 55 years of age or older, with an income of $2000 a year or less for a single person or $2600 for a couple and unemployed. The income figure must include Social Security.

Anyone hired under the program will receive between $1.60 and $3 per hour, depending on the job, for 20 hours of work per week.

The work will be with public agencies such as cities, counties, school districts, hospitals, libraries and non-profit agencies like social service agencies.

Applications from unemployed senior citizens and inquiries from prospective employers are now being accepted at the San Jose project office, Suite 700, Vintage Tower, 235 E. Santa Clara St., telephone 998-8442. Eugene Allbaugh is the San Jose manager.

WITH RTU–91

William L. Melcher of 2200 Curtner Ave. in Campbell and Craig Busack of 938 Bucknam Ave. in Campbell are participating in the annual two-week active duty cruise of their Naval Reserve squadron, Replacement Training Unit 91, at the Naval Air Station at Moffett Field.

The mission of RTU-91 is to train Naval Reservists in the operation and maintenance of the Navy's Lockheed P-3 Orion Anti-submarine Warfare aircraft.

Melcher is an aviation machinist mate third class with the squadron. Busack is an aviation electronics technician trainee.

Local family is featured in production

Dad plays the part of Fulton, a typical old political boss, and helps with set construction and painting.

Mom sings in the chorus, is an understudy for one of the leading parts, and is production ticket manager.

Daughters Karen and Laurie are helping with make-up and painting sets.

Son Tom is working on set construction and painting.

The whole Balkow family of 773 Union Ave. in Campbell has been putting in hours of their free time to the Saratoga Drama Group presentation "Of Thee I Sing."

Bob Balkow, father of the Campbell clan, is a senior engineer at Pacific Telephone. A member of the Santa Clara Chorale for six years, he has had chorus parts in previous Saratoga productions of "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot."

His wife, Mary, belongs to Opus III, a professional folksinging trio who has given concerts in Santa Cruz, San Anselmo, Portola Valley, and throughout the Santa Clara Valley. The troupe performed with the Santa Clara Chorale in four concert programs in their 1969 tour of Europe. Mary is a soloist with the Chorale.

Daughter Karen, 18, is a sophomore at UCLA. She had the lead of Chicken Little in the one-act play "The Sky Is Falling" at the Westwood campus. While at Camden High School she was the student director of "Send Me No Flowers," had the female lead in "Great Expectations," and played the mother in "David and Lisa."

Laurie, a junior at Camden High, sings with her mother and sister for weddings and other civic functions. She serves as Teen Board Representative to the Emporium Almaden. Laurie helped with costumes and make-up in "Camelot."

Tom, 9, the youngest in the family, is a fourth grade student at Cambrian School. Although he lists his hobbies as the expected car and plane models and sports, he, too, has had theater experience. He appeared on stage as a page in "Camelot," and was appointed as the official cigarette butt picker-upper for "My Fair Lady."

The Saratoga Drama Group production "Of Thee I Sing" opens on Friday, September 8 and plays through September 30. For more information, call Agnes West at 255-0801.

Tax deadline approaches

On August 31 at 5 p.m., all taxpayers who have not paid their unsecured property taxes will become delinquent.

Unsecured property consists of inventory, fixtures and equipment, improvements on leased property, boats, airplanes and all other taxable personal property not included in real property tax bills.

Payments should be mailed to the Tax Collector, 70 West Hedding St., San Jose, CA 95110, but must be postmarked by August 31, 1972.

If the tax is not paid at that time, State Laws require a six per cent penalty plus costs to be added to all unpaid taxes.

After December 31, 1972, an additional charge of one per cent per month must be added.

Unsecured property taxes are based on the value of the property on the lien date, March 1, 1972, for the tax year 1972. The disposal of property after the lien date does not relieve the taxpayer of his tax liability.

TB x-rays are "out"

Free tuberculosis tests are available to anyone by contacting the County Health Department at 297-1636 or the nearest Health Department Center.

Nowadays, the County Health Department is no longer emphasizing use of the traditional x-ray test but is urging use of the tuberculin skin test.

The skin test consists of a tiny injection into the skin of the forearm. The arm must be examined in two or three days by a nurse or a doctor to determine if the person has ever been infected with tuberculosis germs.

Only those individuals who react positively to the skin test need to have a chest x-ray to rule out the possibility of TB.

The County Health Department suggests you NOT have a chest mini-film, the miniature screening x-ray for TB, if you have a negative tuberculin test or if: 1) you have ever had active tuberculosis, 2) you have previously been told that you have an abnormal chest x-ray (scarring, previous lung surgery, known chronic lung disease), 3) you are under 25 years of age, 4) you are pregnant (unless your doctor orders it), 5) you have had a chest x-ray within a year.

YOUR CHILDREN??--It only takes one mistake to bring about a tragic accident. In this example, no accident would have occurred if the young girl had not been riding on the handlebars.

The Campbell Police Department has begun a new program of bicycle safety, designed to teach both children and adults the rules of the road.

Campbell Police plan bike safety program

Campbell police plan a crack-down on bicycle violations beginning on October 1.

In order to emphasize the need for bicycle safety, the Campbell Police Department plans to increase the use of citations for bicyclists who commit moving violations.

Bicycles are traffic vehicles subject to specific regulations drawn in the California Vehicle Code, according to the police and bicyclists can be cited for violations just as motorists.

Prior to initiation of this program, there will be an extensive and thorough warning program for both young and old bicyclists sponsored by the police department.

In the past, explained Police Chief Don Burr, bicycle safety programs of the Campbell department have placed emphasis on the young rider. The department has sponsored a safety program in the schools for 12 years and held a special bicycle court for young violators.

But accident statistics show that two out of three bicyclists involved in accidents are driver age, 16 years and older, the chief said. The school-age and "young violator" program failed to effectively reach this older group of cyclists.

Police explain that bicycle safety programs seldom pack much punch simply because most people consider bicycles as toys.

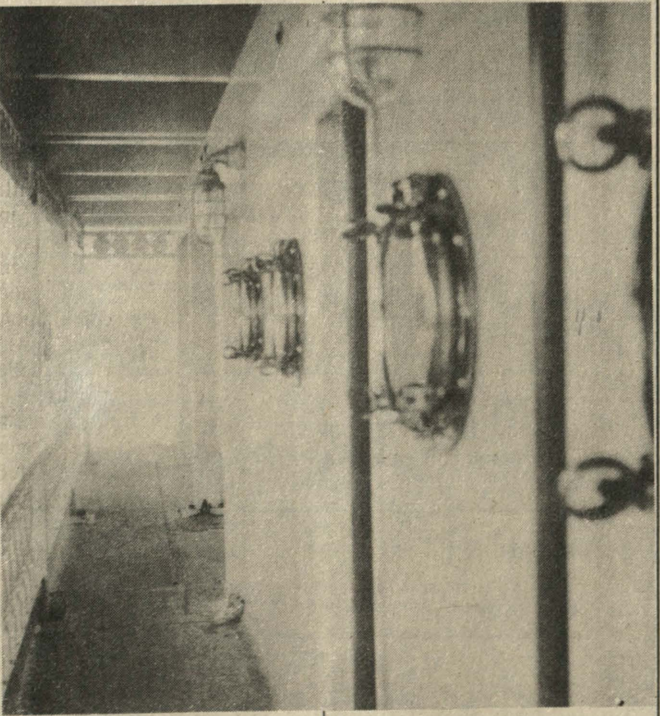
But most people, according to Chief Burr, are aware of what's right and what's wrong when they ride their bicycles.

One prominent part of the program is bicycle licensing. Licensing, police explain, aids in identification, increases chances of recovering stolen bicycles, and promotes responsibility of the bicycle rider. In accident cases where the rider is either unconscious or fatally injured, families can be contacted immediately if the bicycle is licensed.

Bicycle thefts have cost Campbell citizens $27,000 during 1971 and $12,554 in the first seven months of this year, police records show.

Some of the most often violated rules that result in accidents include riding on the wrong side of the street, failure to yield when entering a roadway, unsafe turning movements and riding at night without lights.

Chief Burr pointed out that bicyclists don't realize for the most part how vulnerable they are in traffic. "This program is designed to introduce them to the fact, before an untimely accident does it for us," Burr said.



REFLECTIONS --- Portholes help to create an authentic steamship feeling at the Delta Queen Car Wash in Campbell. A reflection of the adjoining Los Gatos Creek can be seen in the first porthole.

FOSTER HOMES

Foster homes are needed by the County Social Services Department for teenagers who have had problems with other family relationships.

There are monthly payments for each child accepted and medical and dental payments are paid by the Medi-Cal program.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information can call Mrs. Beyrer or Tim O'Brien at the County Department of Social Services, 55 W. Younger Ave., 299-2981.

INSURANCE

The Campbell Chamber of Commerce is offering group insurance to member businesses to let them in on the less expensive rates that go along with the special insurance plans.

The plan will be made available only to dues paying members of the chamber. Other interested persons can contact the chamber at 100 W. Rincon or call 378-6252.

Computer ed faces financial snags

Education's glamour girl of the 60's – computer-assisted instruction (CAI) – may not be attracting the whistles she once enjoyed.

Some critics, noting declining use of the CAI network emanating from Stanford University, go even further and hint the project was never more than a fad.

The computer program has been supervised by the Stanford Institute for Mathematical Studies in the Social Sciences (IMSSS). IMSSS had some 8,000 student participants in the late 60's, but that figure is now down to only 3,000.

The major snag has been the high cost of leased telephone lines over which the system is transmitted. Officials note these costs have been reduced from some $40 per student hour to between $1.50 and $2.50. But even this sum has proven too much for schools as supporting research grants run out.

Now IMSSS is looking to the sky for help. During the past winter, a NASA communication satellite was used for three months. If a permanent satellite hookup can be obtained, those running the program believe it can be offered for as little as $75 per year.

If the money problem is solved, IMSSS is convinced the utilization of CAI will climb rapidly, because it feels the program has proven its value.

In 1967-68, for example, some 2,700 pupils in California, Kentucky and Mississippi were tested in the arithmetic drill-and-practice course. The students, representing a broad range of backgrounds, were given standard tests before and after the program and a Stanford Graduate School of Business study found "performance of the CAI students improved significantly more than the non-CAI students in all but one of the six grades."

The most striking gains were recorded in the first grade where in just three months the average increase in grade placement was 1.14 (more than a full school year) compared to .26 for non-CAI students.

Another test with deaf students revealed an increase of about a year and a half in mathematics competency during a year's CAI study. Normal gain for the handicapped students is only half a year for each year's study.

Local high schoolers score high in Fair prizes

Local ninth and tenth graders won awards in the "Industrial Education" division at the Fair.

Ten students representing Campbell High brought home awards. Bob Negron was a first place winner for the Fair, with Tom Bojorquez, Steven Onishi, Royce Reed, Gregory Taylor and Byron Thompson all bringing home second place ribbons.

John T. Jones, a big winner from Del Mar High School, took a first, second and third place in the County competition. Craig Wuest claimed a first and two seconds as Blackford's winner of the Fair.

Westmont was a big winner, with 21 students placing in the top three places of their events. First place winners included Cliff Grodeon, Neil Trammell, Mike Riley, who also won a third, and Thomas Rabedeau, a winner of two seconds along with his first.

Other Westmont winners included Mark J. Stiltz, who took two second prizes and two thirds, George Audycki, taking a second and two thirds, and Mike Baleno, Lon Celentano and David A. Bernsen, who each won a second and a third.

Mike Mancarella and Ron Plusch were also two time winners, bringing home a second and a third. Other second place winners from Westmont were Jeff Humphries, Frank Lopez, Steve Miller, Bryan Uyeoka, Craig Wygant and Glen Young.

Paul Rodrigues won three third place awards, along with the rest of the Westmont contingent of third prize winners made up of Mike Franks, Larry Grattan, and Norman Smith.

Local youngsters are tops in FFA, 4-H activities

Campbell porkers have been awarded champion status in the Santa Clara County Fair.

Barbara Bothman's pig was the FFA swine champion, and Dan Boynton's animal was declared reserve champion for swine. Campbell's FFA secured their "top pig" status by copping first place for the best pen of three swine.

Another Campbell student, Ken Mathis, received "best angus" recognition in the FFA judging.

Over 20 other local students were recognized for their 4-H activities. In the "home furnishing" division, Cindy Peterson took home a first place award and two seconds. Nora Lee Smith won two first place prizes. Caprice Tantillo rounded out the winning Campbell entries by taking home two second places.

Three Campbell girls won big in the food preservation category. Cindy Peterson took home four firsts and two seconds. Carolyn Scrivano was given seven awards, winning four firsts, one secone, and two third place prizes. Nora Lee Smith copped one first and four seconds.

Clothing proved to be a big Campbell category, as fourteen students took home twenty-one awards. First place winners included Dee Dee Faris, Sue Faris, Lynn Smith, and Nora Lee Smith. Nancy Chivers and Dena Elizabeth Stippich were the big local winners in the division, as each took home a first and a second.

Colleen Clancey, Kathleen Clancey, and Diana Neil all were awarded for their clothes-work with two second prizes apiece. Sandy Peer and Caprice Tantillo each brought their second and third place ribbons back to Campbell. Gwenn Brown and Denise Smith won second places, and Judy Peer took home a third place.

Campbell was also a winner in the electrical division of 4-H activities, with Fred Neil winning two firsts and Mark Smith bringing home two thirds.

In all, that adds up to 25 students winning 54 awards for FFA and 4-H activities.

Flowers, food win at Fair

Campbell residents were big winners at the recently completed Santa Clara County Fair.

One big event for local exhibitors was the floriculture division. Mrs. Eugene Riggs won two best of shows for flower arrangements, along with a third place in her divisional competition.

Mrs. J. Poppendorfer took a second and third place for her African violets. Furyu Floral Designers won a first for flower arrangements. Valena M. Bredal was awarded for her potted plants, and also took home four firsts, a second and two thirds for her adult dish gardens. George R. Sisemore won a first place in tropical plants.

There's good eating in Campbell, with Cheri Stipe's and Susan Louise Alix's third place layer cakes. Mrs. Barbara Russell won a third prize for her loaf cakes.

Mrs. John E. More was another winner, taking home a first, a second and a third in canning division. Linda Taylor took two third places in the fair's canning competition.

Mike Lugas was a first place winner in the vegetable division. Louis Chiaramonte was awarded a third place, and John C. Kirby brought home a fourth prize for his vegetable growing.

PRIME PRICE

Dutch Holthouse of Morgan Hill bought Barbara Bothman's prize pig for $1.00 per pound in last Saturday's auction at the County Fair. Reserve champion Dan Boynton's pig sold for 60-cents per pound to R & R Construction Company. The current market price is 29-cents per pound.

ATTENDANCE UP

Attendance at this year's County Fair reached 418,849, up from last year's 364,127.
